

Learn to be a PRAYER GUIDE

A parent is asked to lead prayer at their child's next game. On the way home, a stop at the book store produces little help. All the books in the prayer section seem to be for people living in some other spiritual dimension.

A 'twenty something' is asked to lead the prayer time at the next connection group meeting. After an hour on the internet he's still nervous because everything he's found is either for someone administrating a church prayer ministry or trying to go deeper in personal prayer.

A frustrated pastor wants his church to be a house of prayer, but after preaching a sermon series and starting a prayer ministry, he still can't figure out how to energize congregational prayer.

These folks all need PRAYER GUIDE - A Manual for Leading Prayer, the nuts and bolts 'how-to' that people who lead prayer are searching for. Prayer Guide will help the novice say a public prayer with confidence, teach the small group leader how to guide others into the presence of God, and give worship leaders the tools they need for a revival of congregational prayer.

Lowell Snow brings a unique blend of practicality, Biblical insight, and spiritual depth to the issues of leading prayer. Combining degrees in church music, Bible, and Christian ministry with thirty years of experience as both worship leader and pastor, he knows what works.

Perhaps just as importantly, having spent some of the early years of his life as an angry agnostic who questioned everything about the church, he brings to the table a fresh and dynamic view of prayer that will open doors of understanding to many who are trapped by those seven last words of the church: 'we never did it that way before.'

If you're new to leading prayer, you'll enjoy the way he presents basic concepts with interesting experiences and Biblical situations. If you've studied corporate prayer for years, you'll be challenged to experience group prayer in new ways.
